Intership
Software Development!

📍 Thessaloniki: for 6 months
starting Oktober 2021 or later

You will create innovative applications for customers of international reputation in our highly agile development team. You will use the latest technologies and experience variety in the implementation of different target systems.

In interdisciplinary exchange with our UX and UI experts, you will accompany the development process from conception to release, implement new features and support product development with your ideas and creativity.

— 6 reasons that speak for you

- Computer science related studies
- Basic understanding of software technologies and patterns
- Knowledge of object-oriented programming (e. g. Java/Kotlin/C++)
- Distinct openness for new technologies and development environments
- Ideally knowledge in mobile development for Android, iOS or web technologies
- Secure knowledge of English, both written and spoken

— 10 reasons that speak for UXMA groundbreaking future projects / a team of thinkers and doers / interdisciplinary exchange / open and honest cooperation / no department heads, but active co-determination / coaching by internal and external experts / flexible working time models / mobile working / creative time for personal development / technology and tools at high-end level

— What we offer you

- At UXMA, we work with state-of-the-art tools and technologies in an agile, method- and process-oriented way.
- For our customers, such as BSH Hausgeräte, Bosch and CLAAS, we work with total commitment and great enthusiasm on a wide range of varied and exciting projects.
- We offer you flexible working hours and options to work remotely.
- In our own academy you can engage in professional development, both internally and externally, and even get extra time to do so.
- We are located in Germany (Kiel, Dresden, Hamburg) and Greece (Thessaloniki) and work for our clients internationally.

— What we value

- We're better together! We prefer to work interdisciplinary, experienced & young and across locations.
- Appreciation is important to us, as is leadership at eye level and an active feedback culture.
- We think it's great to try out new things and to question what currently exists!
  That's the only way we can move forward.
- We never say 'can't'! We find a solution for (almost) everything.
- We like to learn in order to become better. Even from our mistakes. Many a great UXMA idea has come out of this.
- We are diverse and colorful. With us, you can make friends for life.
- We like to start the working day and the weekend with a smile.
